Red Flag Behaviors

Physical Boundary Violations
- Tickling
- Horseplay
- Hugging
- Massaging
- Wrestling
- Going overboard with affection

Behavioral Boundary Violations
Offenders manipulate kids into doing things they wouldn’t otherwise do, such as:
- Sneaking around by saying they will be in one place when actually they are in another
- Keep secrets with the offender
- Look at pornography
- Use drugs or alcohol

Emotional Boundary Violations
- Making them feel important, cared about and understood
- Spending too much time with them
- Choosing favorites
- Giving gifts
- Acting possessive
- Sending excessive or inappropriate text messages
- Pretending to be the child’s friend on social networking sites
- Sharing personal information to make the child feel like they have a special relationship
- Promising extra coaching time, a college scholarship, a place on a national team or even an Olympic Team spot!

Any gut feeling regarding the way an adult is interacting with minors.

How to Recognize if an Adult is a Danger to a Child:

Offenders often operate through a process called “grooming,” the deliberate process of gradually initiating and maintaining a sexual relationship with victims in secrecy. Grooming allows offenders to slowly overcome boundaries long before sexual abuse occurs. On the surface, grooming a child can look like a close relationship between the offending adult, the targeted child and (potentially) the child’s caregivers. The grooming process is often misleading because the offender may be well-known or highly regarded in the community. As a result, it’s easy to trust them.

If something is wrong, you may SEE a sudden change in your child’s behavior, or you may hear unusual comments. If you SEE or hear these things, follow up. Find a relaxed time to talk with your child, asking them about your concerns.
